RPAC Presents... 2013 Summer Patio Concert Series

Cellist Carol Anne Bosco Goes Baroque to Folk

RIVERDALE PARK, MD. August 28, 2013 – It's not often that the Baroque works of German composer Johann Sebastian Bach make it on the same bill as music by The Band (rock and rockabilly), The Avett Brothers (bluegrass, folk, rock and ragtime), and Irish folk artists The Dubliners but cellist Carol Anne Bosco brings them all together in a live, one hour performance Thursday evening in another edition of the 2013 Summer Patio Concert series at Town Center Market.

Bosco, 24, a first year graduate student at University of Maryland's School of Music, began playing the cello in Norfolk, VA public schools when she was 10 years old and has taken on additional duties as a singer.

"I have recently been experimenting with arranging different folk tunes for solo cello and voice," Bosco says. "I'll play songs I've arranged and contrasting them with the solo Bach cello suites in between for added interest. Bach is always fun for a cellist to play because of the multiple voices he can create with just one melodic line."

The free, summer concert series, made possible by a generous grant by the Riverdale Lions Club, begins at 7 pm on the Town Center Market patio immediately following the Riverdale Park Farmers Market in Town Center (3-to-7 pm every Thursday).

Treat your family to an evening of great music from an up and coming local performer.

*Enjoy the free craft beer tasting during Thursday's concert featuring a last hurrah on summer brew, Goose Island Summertime. Tastings will also be offered on two fall beers, New Belgium Pumpkick and Fordham Spiced Harvest Ale. Enjoy a 10% discount on all tasting products.
